Respondent is a 29 year old half peasant, half industrial worker with a peasant background. With the exception of three years of his life, he worked only on the farm. The three years spent among industrial workers, and also the fact that one third of the village in which he lived was employed in the coal mines, have had a considerable affect on the subject. He is not the typical peasant type, as, for example, subject 79-M. But, he is a typical example of those peasants who, under the pressure of forced collectivization, have been compelled to seek employment in the industries.

Subject is of medium height, broad shouldered, muscular, good-looking, a bit untidy in his appearance, With only six years of grade school, he is fairly intelligent, keenly interested in politics. Took an active part in the Hungarian Peasant Union and the Peasant Party. He answered
