without horself bein; aware of it communist indocurination did affect her . Hard to get a straight answer from her except when the answer was "I wouldn't know". Very slow in grasping salient points, Altogother no very intelligent.

LAR -UP Q ESTINES II.

The most important facts that American people sould know and realize are first of all the extent of despair and bittomess accumulated under the communist regime in ilu gary, and which eventually led to the outbreak of the revolution.

Further: it should be known that the Hungarian people was counting on US assistance, some way or other, but even more on Uli sanctions to be enforced against the Russians, They also hoped that irs. Kithly would be accepted as x rightful representative of the MAGY government at the Ul? Finally respondent points out to disa printment everyone fata felt when UN proved to be powerless a ainst mussian a gression and when they found out that MFA and all other Western radio stations poured out words and propa anda only and no help was forthe ming.

III CHROHOLDGY OF PERS WAL EXPENDED CER, ACTIONS, ATTITUDES AND EXPECTATIONS DUILING THE REVOLUTION

Could not remember what she was doing on October 22nd. On October 23rd. as former collog we from he office called up and told her of the students' demands, and asked he whether she knows more. In the afternoon she went out, joining the crowds, which grew at every street-corner and at every block as reople leaving offices, factories joined in la estift posters overywhere displaying the students' de ands. Everybody was very much elated, shouting, singing, slogens, etc. Hobody though it would end in fighting and a rovolution. They only wanted "freedom". The real leaders were the students from the University of Tochnical Sciences, the drafted the "Domands", they did not believe to de on tration will have any consequences for anybody as since the 20th P rty Congress people talked quite freely, and grumbled, criticized. She joined the domestration at Parliament Square, Hobody prevented her or told her not to go. In the contrary everybody wanted to parttake in he deconstrations. body was afraid either, since everybody was takin; part, -they thought- a wole nation, so to say, could not be mished enyway. She was nesting impressed by the torchlight procession.

The done surters were of all ages, but mostly youn people, and of all social classes. Completely somtaneous arran oment, no special leaders. Except a the technical University .

The crowd de anded free elections; free un arian government, withdraval of Bussian troops from ungary and the ond of Lakosi's terror reign, A free democracy in its best sense, buld not have accepted any compromise. In the beginning the students did not want anything else than the tehoir demands be read out on the radiom. .. spendent believes that had this been permitted, no blookshod and no revolution would have occurred. The fighting starte when the AVII started the shooting. Those takin part in the fighting were young children, students, workers, a great number of pirts, and in the end everybody else joined.

Respondent could not tell who did not take part in the fightings, as everybody was very entusiastic.

There were no "leaders" in the strict sense of the word. The whole fighting started spontaneously, At the university of Technical Sciences, however, everybody spoke of a Colonal TRIAN the was a legendary here. He later on, - it was rumored-fled to the Bakeny Greats and or anised the "partizans" there. Col. HARL H spoke at the Bem statue to the crowd.

Restondent thint it was a miracle how and where from the fighters got arms. That she saw was that young people got into trucks and returned loaded with arms. Friends told bor hey just went to the armories and arms shearex factories. The first time she heard the word "freedom fighter" was on Detober 23rd. Age of these range from 8 to 25 years, and there were just as many girls as boys. They came of all stoial classes. Respondent here adds that as a matter of fact in au gary there were no no more "social classes" anymore.

She could not tell of anybody who did not fight, as even those who did not take an active part in the fighting, encouraged the young people. Even the so-called communists, i'v recalls that the president of that her trade union(a woman) teld her to a and fight, and later on to escape and disclosed her admiration(with tears in her eyes) for Hungarian youth who fought against such treasendous o ds.

has ondere worked at 1 rate aid centers during the revolution caring for the wounded.

At the beginning of the revolution everybody had high hopes and especially regarding their "demand," which they hoped would be accepted by the regime. However, when KADAR took over and no assistance was forthcoming from the US respectively UN trey los all hope.

they were enra ad by the lovernment's action in calling in mussians. First believed it was MAGY, but then found out that he was not responsible.

Period of October 25 to November 3:

Lett around in hospitals and first-aid centers visiting the wounded and then going to their revalites giving news about them. There were no loctures to attend at the University.

C. The RE INVASION.

Ehorist before the re-invasion respondent observed that the Russians disappeared completely, especially from the countryside. Nobody quite believed that they really did withdraw altogether, but on the other hand nobody expected it either that they will return in such force. See heard about the halted Soviet withdrawal, respectively re-invasion on a wember 4th. Saw the first new Bussian troops on Nov.4th. stationed at main thoroughfares, along the Hakoosi ut, Kilian Barracks, Borros ter.

From the time of the Rod Army's return to the time of her escape respondent continued to visit the wound d and their relatives, but stoyed also a great deal at home. Her fience (now husband) wasminsing and she was very upset about it. (They not a sin here in the States only) She then starte to plea heres—cape on November 21st.

Respondent had no answer to the question websther or not H nary gained because of the Jotober revolution.

IV DAPAS AT 1988 OF TALE LONGING THE LAVIDATION

What he revolutionaries expected rou the Lest was not money or food. They know that this would have been seized by the Russians and the communists. They were willing to go hungry only had they received arms. However, when no Ull action was forthcoming and time was running short, they lost hope. They know that they were on their monex own now, and did what they could. The Hungarian army, which sided with them miss was their greatest support. She thought that maybe the Lestern powers would appropriate their strong will to break with communism, and their will to fight and sacrifice, and come to their assistance.

She did not have any contact with any foreigner or diplomatic personnel between lot, 23rd and time of her escape,

V_SOCIAL CLASS STRUCTURE AND ANTITUDES

Father owned a typewriter repair slop, He died after the war. Then the nother supported the facily. She was a dressmaker, and could provide decent living conditions for horself and her only child, Respondent says she does not remember income of father or mother. The famility did not own any property. Both parents and high-school education.

In respondent's view there were no social class disctinctions on Hungary during the communist regime, an she is of the opinion that this was one of the good thing con unism brought about. If necessary she would classify people, according to their professions sworkers, peasants and intellectuals. The latter are the civil servents, doctors, engineers, etc. Craftsmen and artisans were "class aliens" in the eyes of the rog ... She had contacts with all groups, Boliovos that there should be no class distinction as the different classes learn to know each other and assimilate better of there are no barriors. She classified herself to be of the intellectual class. Thought that this class was hit most by communism, as communist doctrine was completely alien to them.

She thought that the workers had some nort of "inferiority complex" toward the intellectuals. Yould not tell whether there were any changes in this attitude.

In gotting shead in communict Hungary the political views were of prinary importance, Talent came last, as class ewigin was important too. People of MANUALER the working class or peasantry had preference everywhere. She could not give details on changes as she was very young at the beginning of communism. There was, however, a change after the 20th Congress, when requirement standards were slackened. An agressive "big mouthed" worker would always ot away with everything and get on best.

VI FA ILY LIFE UNDER C CURISH

Communism had a great and very bad offect on family life in Hungary. The hardest hit word the young couples, due to housing shortage and also because both had to work so as to provide a decent living if possible. The Hungarian housewife worked during the day, then had to attend the household chores in the evening. If there ere children whe her lot was even worse, Crowded housing conditions; bad food, hard work and people jumpy, listless, norwy. This refers to all social classes more or less.

Con unise brought about a gross change in the way how children are brought up in Hungary. They start with the indoctrination of small children in nursery schools, and scoondary schools where they belong to the "Uttere" (Pionser) movement, Later in high-school and universities there is the Diakssovetseg" which takes them in hand. Thus obildren of all social classes are being in octri a ted. If course to ere is a conflict between perents and children. The latter want to be more "froe". However the strictly political indoctrication did not encound much. The more mature kids soon find out that there is a difference between what hoy are bein taught and the results. The of ildren are more disobedient as they are more independent. The ther or not they can got away ith is depends more or less on the parents a titude and family ties. Also on the individual. The modern trend in youth behavior - secord no to respondent's views- is not so much con unism, but a natural evolution in his field, as youth is always more progressive. She thinks that the change occurred in all social classes. As to conflicas between parents and children , she thinks it depends whether or not the parents are scared of acting against the wishes of the kids, whether . . re is a chance that those "mort" the parents, who om the other hand are scared to lose their job or get a "bad mark"

Formy people did not compute their parents much about these questions. Young people not at social gatherings, sports, being steady meant that they lived together, but could not jet married due to housing shortage mostly. There were a great number of illegitimate children, as abortion was punished and birth control devices were hard to get and expensive. The illegitimate child, however, did not receive the name of the mother. If the father it was known, it was registered under his name, i not, then in the name of the grandparents. So as to remove the stigms of being turn out of wedlock.

Civil marriage was of course the only requirement. There were several "marriage-houses" providing a more festive atmosphere than a plain registry office would. But many couples got married also in church.

Prostitution was prohibited under co municu.

Official government opinion was discussed in the papers.
Hespandent believes that communists were less inhibited about sexual actors which she attributes to commist doctrine.

Regarding friends ip, the poss and come of communism were always bothy discussed. Feeple were of course cautious with whom they discussed such things and to what an extent, had no opinion the for politics could be kept out from friends ip and whether it could be continued. She was inclined to say yes.

There was an increase in mjor crimes and althoholism. This was due to bed livin conditions, ata insufficient wages; Authorities tried to hush it up of course. Juvenile delinquency has increased, but she could not tell about crime rate anon women. The government tried to control the situation and the police was pretty god in handling it.

The hooligans were out for material gain only, after women and drink. Authorities make no seers about it. The reason of increase in hooliganism can be traced back to the break-up of family life, and is not restricted to any special social class or background. Hooliganism is considered criminal by respondent and she points out that parents usually try to do their best to prevent it.

VII. RELIGION

Religion and religious life was much affected in Hungary under communist rule since communism per se does not recognize religion and is atheistic.

It was a bad mark against anybody who attended church for inst. After the 20th Congress, hwover, reins were slackened somehow, and people became more bold.

Respondent believes that all religious were equally hit

Religion is not such an important factor in her life thank as in the life of her parents. But this she attributes not to communism only but to the change of times , as youth is more progressive and does not cling to tradition.

Churches should-in her opinion-take an active role in education but by no means in politics.

Thinks that Jewish religion was also hurt be communism, but could not give how and why.

As far as she can judge the autitude of Jews in hungary was the same toward communism as of everybody clse. Could not tell of any changes during the last ten years. There were many Jews who were communists, and she thinks they became communists for material reasons, not because of conviction. She saw Jews taking part in the revolution and in the fightings also. She lived in a district which had mostly Jewish population. Shether or not the Jews were afraid of an independent Hungary, she could not tell. If so they might feer pograms, but is not sure.

VIII THE HUNGARIAM YOUTH

The so-called hungarian youth consists of the stadents and young people up to 24,26 years of age. It was decidedly this age-group which lead the October revolution, N t at any time before the revolution, as nobody ever though there would be one, but during the demonstrations and the fighting they took xxx most actively part in it. The reason for their taking the iniciative is the fact that, as in idex 1848 also, - it is always the young people who have more blan, also, they dare to criticize more openly. The older people encouraged youth during the revolution.

Education in Hungary on the whole was good, the teachers were capable, but the books were bad, as except with the strictly scientific subjects, all manuals were slanted, and stuffed with politics. The sta dard was very high- this she sees even more now, as she had occasion to compare it to schools in the US .- There was a "directed vocation I choice" on basis of specific shortages in certain vocations, Alrendy in the lowest grades and every year from them on children had to fill in many questionmaires regarding their future plons. But in the end the decision was arbitrary by the authorities. Teachers and professors were competent, and even though they had to teach according to communist destrine -for fear of losing their jobs- the students soon found out that they were not communists at heart. They were very few among then the were invetorate contunists. The teachers and professors could always mintain discipling as classes even to the very end before lectures sto god at universities and schools at the outbreak of the revolution, Respondent was "shooked" to see the difference herexiaxidexidax in schools and colleges hore in the US.

The communists cortainly did devote much time and effort to indoctrinate the younger generation. Without very much result, however, After working hours there were consulsory seminaries" to attend, political moetings atc. Respondent, however, since she took active parts in sports, (cance racing) she went to trainings instead.

They failed to indoctrinate youth because conditions in Hungark belied communist doctrine, and the young people could see for themselves that things went wrong, and that "democracy", as carried out in Hungary was a big lie. In the beginning many young people who joined SZIT, and mainly the young workers, were quite enthusiastic about it, but later through the years they were more and lore disillusioned.

IX MAJOR DISSATISFACTIONS AS FELT IN EVERY-DAY LIFE

A.
The lack of freedom of speach was the gravest complaint. Then high prices, low mages and therefore low living standard, difficult to make both ends meet,
There was never enough money to buy overything you needed. If you wanted clothes, you went hungry. If you had enough to eat you went in rags. It was no good to work more, as the moment production went up, norms were raised and so it went on ed infinitum.

Respondent was mostly annoyed by the fact that their superiors in the office knew less of the job then semselves, yet they had to obey their orders. Further the protexts the regime invented to make them work one or two days more if possible. For instance if there was a heliday the slegan would be: "We colobrate with work" and work they had, heliday or no loliday.

X. ECONOMIC LIFE

The standard of livin has dropped to a very low level in hungary during the last years. Food was to be had, but distribution was spondie, and there were certain commodities (mest for inst.) where there was a constant shortage. Also prices were high. People did not starve actually, but, as previously mentioned had to spend practically all her earnings on food.

Clothing was a bad quality and also very expensive. There was no choice, and ready to wear clothin; was in bad taste, bad quality, and badly made.

If there was any possibility, people rather had their clothes made. The same stands for shoes.

Housing conditions were simply avail. Co-tonancy was the solution and is worked badly. People got on each others nerves, there was no privacy.

Anything that was beyond the bare living, was considered a luxury in Hugary. Anything that was beyond the bare living, was considered a luxury in Hugary. As everybody else, respondent thought that housing a ortage was the main concern of everybody. Living standards were highest in 1947 from then on it went down gradually on the whole. She personally cannot complain as her mother as a dresmaker could make comparatively a very cod living. On the whole the living standard was the lowest in 1951-52

People who were in the blackmarket business lived tell as they hade good profits. Also contractors who altered in the large apartments into co-tenancies made good money.

The low living standard in Hungary was due to exagerated exports to the Seviet Union. The Seviet Union exploited Hungarian agriculture and industry alike.

В.

In 1956, respondent carned 880 frt. per month as a steno-typist. After deductions she received 800 frt. on hand, Party Lambers, hi her officials atc. had of course more deductions for fees, subscriptions etc. Subject did not receive any boundes or extra pay, nor raise. She also had no other income. Jother earned well enough.

Sermon two pays in terration reportion rices , quality of tooks etc. as all nover did eny marketing or shoppin, left it to mother or sunt. As far as she heard prices went up very much. There was a difference in prices between the state stores, free market and commission stores (these sold second-hand merchandise only) lether used to tell that quality of food commodities was better on the open market. Prices changed here account to seasons. Could not tell stanges in prices in different years, nor tell anythin, about price differentials. However situation seemed to be botter in 1956, or instance there were better quality shoes, also the choice in ladies clothin, was larger. He reason for this change? Couldn't tell.

She also could tell little about retail distribution in Hungary. Spare parts -for instance for her nothers sewing machine-were extremely difficult to get, so were needles for inst., anything made of steel. Then there was a stortage of wood and coal, also lumber for the building industry. Some goods were simply unobtainable, others were scarce and very expensive. Could not give specific blackmarketeerin was widely spread and procised by everybody. It was not organised and was run on individual basis. The prices were high, but gunda goods were of good quality, originating mostly from packages received from abroad, mostly the US. his stands for elethin and also for fredstuffs. Legal outlets could not refuse to sell goods unless paid a higher price. Blackmarketeerin was persocuted, but it was nearly impossible to enforce the rule, because everybody took part in it and also people were very cautious, sold only to people they kant know, friends, etc. If found out penalties ranged from fines to imprisonment, loss of jobs, etc.

Respondent was steno-typist, worked straight eight hours. It took he his minutes to get to work, After working hours she sither went to take part in sports, or stitended anglish classes. These were sponsored by the company. She selected for own job, has liked by co-workers, as well as by superiors. She refused to into take those seriously when they tried to take too much politics to her, her injediate superior was a young and very consolted botsy man, who treated the older people very badly. She had several quarrols with him on account of it. This young man was efficient in his job.

the was quite satisfied in her work, except the the was very often reprisended for having her fingermails mainted, or for being too dressy (her mother made all her clothes)

Her fellow workers were good at their jobs. H d to be or could not hold posi-

The top superiors had to be party members, but they had to do their best so as to "learn" their jobs. If are was at every enterprise the so-celled "triangle" consisting of the plant manager who was a Prry Lember, (but had to be efficient) then the Party Secretary, who was a figure head only, and whose task was to see that things are run on the party line. Finally the Trade Union Delegate the usually was one of the workers.

There was a vacation plan for the workers who received either a free vacation that is all expenses paid—if had good marks, or people got vouchers, which could be used at state vacation resorts. Those vouchers entitled them to a 50% deduction for board, and transportation fame expenses. Sickinsurance fees were deducted from the salary, Lespondant Whinks that the health program was the best in the whole communist system. They you became ill, the state took care of all bills, including podicines, doctors fees, hospitalization,

Retirement payments were also deducted Depending on salaries. Lower at 55, men at 60 were allowed to retire, but received their pensions only of employed by the same company in the last 10 years or i transferred from one state owne plant to the other. If changed jobs on their own or voluntarily all rights were forfeited. To every worker had to see to it that the company

"transfers" him.

Respondent would profer to live in cities only. "would be bored to death" in the country.

As to food, the allicultural worker was better off. Though it happened that they had to purchase britists to surronder if hervest was bad. The farmers had always more money tak a city dweller. Living standard, however, was better in the cities. In a small provincial or munity overybody knew everybody and poked in everybody's affairs, so it was easier to be inconspicuous in a large city.

Regardin collectivisticism, respondent was too your when it was first introduced, and was over interested in findin out whether it is or was good or not. The well-terds persant of course objects most to collectives were being the heard in the first days fixed the revolution dist collectives were being dissolved, eneral dissolved with the system of he have been the reason, hespendent believes has private farms would be the best solution by all means. In an independent hungary she believes that highly mechanized private farms would be the best system.

XI PULITICAL LIFE

Respondent emphasizes that she never had and does not have any interest in politics. Before 1918 she was much too young to remember mythin; or have an opinion of her on, And later on sheet just "couldn't care less", has never been a member of an party.

She thinks that poorle mostly joined the Party for material reasons, or for instance the very poor people they were the only ones who in the beginning did get samething out of the regime. But even those who were Party numbers were not out and all conjunists.

Regarding to party policies she remembers that it eased up in the later years especially after the 20th congress. Regardless of loscow order, somehow even the tugb commists got tired to be always "tough". But then after Stalins death the change was obvious, within the party, however, they tried to maintain disciplins, farty numbers at 11 spied maximum and reported on each other. Also they had to take an active part in party activities.

It is very difficult to judge whether or not the top contunists were convinced and dedicated party numbers. They certainly id everything to seem to be such. It could are been both, conviction and compled with ambition. The Soviet pressures was very throng, and they had to obey orders. Moreomatics The Mossowite leaders were stooges. Pince she never had any contact with party members and the big-wigs. Pince she must never interested to find out. In an independent languary the former top contunists should be made to under go the came treatment they gave to the lungarian nation, or even worse.

Elfore the revolution there was much complainin joing on, though not openly, as nobody dared to do anything. It was mostly the workers who complained but many were dismissed or punished if and when found out. She could not tell whether expection of any kind occurred more often during some period than other.

She hear, however, about the Petöfi Kir. But only on Jutober 23rd. Not before. Their manifeste contained more or loss who severybedy wanted. They were no forerunners of the revolution, as no revolution was expected at all. The intellectuals were knowners held in esteem, and no viewed as dreamers.

The revolt of the intellectuals against the regime ran on a istorical pattern in Hungary, Remember 1848, when also the number of the and writers started the revolution.

XII THE A. PAR TUS OF J. ER

A. Members of the AVH were the bases creatures on earth, misload, deceived families. Also perverts, Regalomaniaes. Others did it for the sake of high salaries . Some of her friends had experiences with the AVI. Could not give details. She never heard of any AVI can who suffered remorses or wanted to leave the AVI.

No it is not an exageration that people in communist dungary lived under constant fear. She would like to see all MV non hanged, the more so because they all were volunteers. A ceptions were a few who during their compulsory military service were assigned to AVH units.

The regular police was recruited from mostly from the perusantry. They were stupid country louts. The p lice-women were former servant-girls. They were quite competent in dealin, with regular-non political-crimes. Could not give information regardin, their integrity.

The regular police fou ht against the AVH during the revolution, she garrist heard. for scape the wrath of the crowd, but were always easily picked out just for the very conspicuously now uniforms.

Regarding Courts and Peoples' Courts respondent could not live any information due to her age.

Regarding the nungarian army, one volunteered the information that the boys tried not to get any rank, because if they attained a rank than u ay had to serve an additional year or even more besides the co-pulsory 25 months.

Whether or no events of 1848 did prejudice the hungarian people against the Russians, respondent coul not tell, however the 1945"liberation" certainly did its even though she was a small kid when it happened she recalls the terror of it. For inst. she remembers that mussian soldiers wanted to rape her 15 year old manner, and her nother offered herself instead. In the end they could bribe the Aussian withm a bike, in order to loave them increment unsoluted. Leter on the boviet army was also hated because they were living off the land, and people know that the country was exploited by the Soviet. Respondent's attitude toward the lassian army wersened in the caurse of time. The more she got to know that the ore she hated them and so did everybody else. Heither she nor her family had any closer contacts with bussian occupation troops, enlisted men or of icers. Troop: stationed in Hungary before the revolution absorbed a great deal of Hungarian culture and civilisation, and liked it too. They quite liked the Hungarians and some proops even fou ht with them. These troops were then called back as being "unreliable", They did not want to go back to lausia, There was not much fraternization with the Eussian troops, their children had their own Dussian schools. She does not any of marriages. Though prostic to a associated often with aussian soldiers.

As to the attitude of Bussianz soldiers toward petriotism, bussia atc. Hungary and the Hungarian people, she can only say that they did not talk about these questions, however, they were anased to find that living standard in Hungary was very much higher; also they four that the Hungarian con uniets wanted to outdo the bussian con uniets by their function. The above on mions she overheard once.

As mentioned before the Bussians who were in Bungary before the revolution were favorably disposed toward the Bungarians. So and officers alike. Have them arms, tanks, and oven fought on their side. Those troops that came later, were very youn; men, Bongols, mostly, and were scared. They did not know where they are and for what purpose. Some thought they have to fight the Basis, Others thought they are at the Suez Canamil. A friend of hers told that he saw for insolf when one of these soldiers was told where he is and when he has to fight, he started cursing his own masters and wept like a child. She heard from reliable sources that Soviet soldiers helped Bungarians, refused to shey orders, deserted, fought on the side of Bungarians, fought against the AVH(at the Parliament when they turned their tanks against them) and also due to the above, fought each other. She has not heard of any brutality by Soviet Boldiers toward Hungarians during the revolution.

While in Hungary respondent thought that there is too much red tape, But since she is here she thinks otherwise,

She had experience only with the Labor Office. Here the top official is of course a party member. Could no tell of competency. She had not much trouble with them as she used a cosual fraternising manner.

Tardiness on the job was stitledly controlled, (deductions, reprisends and dismissal) Could be easily controlled as everybody had to punch in on arrival.

Output of work was also strictly controlled, and any lag in "norms" had its consequences. First of all earnings were insufficient, the workman or women was shifted to another job, re rimended, and finally dismissed. There were always compulsory meetings to be attended, haspendent never did, the always was excused as she went to sports trainings. Every employee had a "Mader" file whereon the scallest details were dutifully noted by the party secretary and the cersonnel manager, hespendent had many fights with the secretary to the Flant Manager who was constantly pickin, on her, just sheer eattyness she believes. In her office there was one of her superiors who dared to speak up for his employees. He was scart enough to do it in a way so that not to attract attention. Openly nobody could do it. She know him also socially and found him a "decent guy". His wife was a friend of hers.

"Getting around" and "pulling ropes" was generally practiced and if you knew the how how you could achieve a great deal. It was nestly done at on the friendship line, less with bribery, as this was severely punished. You could get away with bribery for instance at the AVH or police, with prison-wards are suchlike.

Respondent was very value in her ensuers pertaining to the competence of AVH, Police, Army leadership, Russian Army Leadership etc. In fact she could not give any positive answers. "believed" they must have some smart sen among them after all.

XIII. ASSESSMENT OF FUTURE PROSPECTS FOR HUNGARY

Due to what happened in Hungary, (return of the Bussians, inactiveness of UN) she really has not the foggiest idea what to think. Also what can the West do with a government (Endar) which is not accepted by them? She does not believes that normal life will return to Hungary unless the people will be allowed to vote freely and elect their own government by the people. She does not think that since so much losses occured (every family has at losst one dead) people in Hungary will let it be all in vain. After having been let down by the West, she has no expectations. Does not see a chance that lussia would change her attitude, short of war, and this nobody wants.

To her mind the only accestable solution would be complete independence and complete neutrality. Would not accept any compromise, which Russia would not heep anyway.

Respondent has no idea how and whereby these hopes may be realized but emphasizes that nobody in Hungary would like to see a 3rd world war, - which would follow an outbreak of hostilities between the US and Russia. Loople of Hungary had enough in 44-45 and in 56. ics no idea whether or not anus-Russian conflict would or could occur. On the other hand since UH resolutions were without any effect and could not be enforced, she is at loss what to think about the whole matter. laybe if the re resentatives of the satellite nations were not lescountes, but at least notional communists, some progress toward a peaceful solution could be found. She does not believe that changes could occur within the Goviet Union as the Russian people are wrinitive, indoctrinated, subjugated and have no now guts to fight. Ind the top con unists would not dore to deviate from the party line as for or purges have shown whereto it would lend.

Homes were high in Hungary fter the 20th Congress ask a general slackening of the reins was felt in every res cet. It was hoped that this would continue gradually. The revolution care quite unexpected. In fact people were rather ox ceting so ething to happen when times were worse and oppression ore strictly enforced.

MIV JOST L, CLITTELL HO MORE IC IN ALLOGY

More Hungary in coendent, respondent was very quick and fin in this ,- she wants Peoples Democracy as political system. Would like to see friendly relations with all states, complete neutrality Tambasis in an independent Hungary should be on agriculture and not on industry, since the country always was an agricultural country an only during communism, under Russian pressure was it so overindustrialized. The compatitell maich reduction of which goods should be abandoned, and which ones continued. In :n independent non-co : unist Tungery the heavy incustry , mining industry etc. should remain under state control. Is well as transportation/reilunys, shipping / Comperce should be free shops and small or fts la-nationalized; let everybody get ahead in trade. Houses should be given back to owners, and so should be the land. Government shoul not set a mini u as to what ony person or family my oum.

As to the hind of g vernment she could like to see in an independent Hungary, she prefers the find that would give complete personal freedom, without assurance of a job, because if every-body in flower to work and to live freely, its up to the individual to shape his cum life. The accord solution would not work, as life without ersonal freedom is not worth while living. Therefore no marky, not even the commist party should be cutlaved in on independent Euro ry.

As mentioned before, the ideal position for an independent Hungary is strict neutrality, like Justria. Relations with the Soviet Union only in case if Russia "behaves" With all other nations East Duropean or Mestern powers, as well as US on a friendly neutral basis. As such trade relations as possible with all, and cultural relations also. No military alliances.

Respondent heard about the possibility of a Danubian federation. but has no idea whatsoever what this would mean and which countries would participate. Also is not interested. "I really had other things to do than to think about such matters" Cannot tell about general feeling in Hung: ry regarding this problem.

The present boundaries of Hungary are unacceptable to her. She feels that the 1000 marks years ald frontiers of the country should be re-established or at least the parts where Hungarian nationals live. She is aminly concerned about Transylvania. Repatriation of Hungarian nationals would be not the solution. the only acceptable solution would be to return to Hungary these territories where Hungarian rationals are living. The whole questions is very important to her.

EV. FOR THEE OF LUTLIC C. INTEN

Respondent heard of course about the 20th Party Congress, and that Prushchev held a speech but doesn't know anything about it. "I just mant interested "Rever heard about emater becarthy and the Un-marican ctivities Cormittee. Weither about Peron. bout Rabosi's private life she "heard" during the revolution when the revolution ries seized the ville where he was living, and found all underground passages, shelters, and the whole clace to be equipped and furnished with greatest and unit ginable luxury. B.

Respondent never bothered to read the Rungrian newspapers, first Respondent never bothered to read the Rungrian newspapers, first of all she was not interested in clitics, and then "all they told were lies envery". She read sports-magazines, novie regazines and susical magazines. Books: translations of western authors mostly English and American. The Russian classics and redern. The read also the Rung rian classics, and some ederms. Lots of moetry. Maturally also der an liter ture in translations. Western literature, magazines etc. was handed down from friend to friend xmax At school and in the offices there were of course the "co-pulsory" books and agazines to read, the regime tried to stuff it down their threats. The entioned sinly the newscapers to which means had to subscribe. Ezabad Hóp was the werst as far as she know, An evening paper, lati Dudapest was slightly better. Then there was Hépszeve, lagyer Remact. Altogether copie disliked reading papers, which were slanted, full of propagands and reported nostly events in Russia and the other satellites. Regarding the reading ha its of the copie in general she could not give any information. Dooks were not too expensive and the quality of the books was not too bad either. The part of the part of the sould be seen and the quality of the sould be seen and the sould be seen as a seen and the seen as a see

She and her family redd Western sublication whenever they could get hold of any. The mentioned the Vogue, Esquire, Life Lagazine and an increan lusic lagazine, could not give name/ that everybody enjoyed nost, what these sublications were free from solities. Also they were greatly impressed by the superior quality of the paper, pictures, advertizing etc. These Western sublications were of course not sold in public. Some scople got it from abroad, came in packages, got it through legation personnel etc. Respondent does not know about any illegal sublications having been winted in Hungry. Nor about people

"Grapewine" had all foreign news, and of course she too heard it. However, she was not interested in any political news, only sports and music. Reliable friends told each other an always everything, and the news was pretty much reliable. Respondent also passed on information, but only regarding made or sports. Usually at friendly gatherings.

Respendent like to go to the theatre and lovies, but hid not too much time as after office she usually went for sports trainings. The sainly saw classics, 'reach, lots of the spears, no lumgian of yo. Very few lung rions. In the lovies there were of course no increase at all. The saw in my french, Italian, Dangarian and iso bassion detures. For favorite plays were type lien and Cyrono, and the picture she liked best was a picture on the life of a doctor, /could not give title/

Shout chances of changes in Russia she has already talked, and says that she cannot do anything . As to free elections in Russia? Could not tell. The does no think that real "free" and could be held, unless a could be held, unless a could be change occurs there.

C. She does not feel that the Gorulla government is the final solution for roland. His step, however, was in the rightdirection. End no less shout future outlook for Poland.
The events in roland certainly affected events in Hangary, the Polish "that" encouraged people make during the revolution. Regarding freeder of expression in roland prior to Gorulla's rise to power: she could not remainer having heard about the Polish problem before the revolution. The jax heard about the Polish problem before the revolution. The jax heard about the Polish problem before the revolution. The jax heard about the Polish problem was carried by the Hungarian newspapers, lso people heard from friends.

Respondent is of the orinion that had khandhungarkans Polish pattern been accordable to the Hungarians, the revolution would not have occured. Hungary wonted here than colond got.

Respondent has no ensure to the question whether or not Tito was the crimin tor of "national commission. The thinks his to be independent from lescow, and refusing to take orders from the lowiet. In Hungary one day everybody was singing his praises, the next day people were ordered to conde m him, "this was very confusing" and ridiculous. The seas his as a very smart can who cares minly for the independence of his people. He sits on the fonce, and would to everything to re aim in fivor of both sides: the lest and hussic. Tito's attitude toward the Hungarian revolution was the best example. He did not want to stick out his nock.

bout other "Titeists" respondent can say nothing, she says she was a small child at the time of the Rajk process, and has not heard of Hensly or other Titeists ever. The clieves fro what she heard, that Tite is very popular in Mugoslavia. For above contions reasons. Living standard on the whole is very uch the same as in Many ry. Couldn't tell about labor conditions, from a of empression cic.

In her ominion the commists gained control of China due to the fact that the country is very under evoloped, its people / jerity/ printitive. Indicate but not least ladrof landership. Has no view as to China's independence or dependence of America. Does not know anything about Indo-British relations.

Respondent has no opinion whatsoever concerning the invasion of the Suez Canal, For all invasion of Egypt etc.

Living standard in Mostern Genery is high and on the rise. We does not believe that the Germans would start enother war. The believes that the German army is toe nicelly superior to other Mostern armies, if not i numerically. He not heard would the term of service in the Mostern German army.

Respondent preferred the Russian occupation as "the Russians did not differentiate between religious clieft as did the Germans. Regarding discipline she zankhanekakakhan thought the Certans were better. The thought that on the whole Russians weferred the German occupation troops to the Russians.

G. Respondent rapided the listed countries according to the standard of living as follows:

Great Dritain, Mestern Germany Italy Ngypt Greece Doviet Union

The first thing that struck her in the US was the terrific traffic, the number of automobiles, the super arkets and department stores, automatic galgets, the subway.

The United states ought to give ore noral and economic assistance to the Restern Aropean nations. Also arms. The present policy of the US is not too bad but ineffective, and it certainly was so during the Hangamian revolution. All aid to present governments of Poland, Augoslavia etc. should only be given if it can be controlled that it is being used to the purpose asked for. But she thinks that no aid should be given to the lader government. Her attitude on what the US should do has not changed since she came to this country.

The imerican govern out should not as nowledge the present Tungerian govern ent, this motion in present the nation.

rould in Ing my would containly like to see ore Mestern visitors, but could not tell what hind of visitors they would prefer. Delieves that recent refugees who know the situation in Tungary should tell the the truth about languary.

Tungarians would cartainly be relighted in receiving Mastern books and variodicals, not large selection too. The thirds if free distribution were allowed there would not be any problem how could get the . The thirds it would impress people favorably if Hungarian exiles were associated with such activities.

Res on ent loes not mon anything a out the larshall lan, neither has she any idea why beries fought in Lorea. The firsty clieves that the UH could have affected the situation in Tungry had they wanted to do so, in the last conths of 1956. However, she thinks that the acthods of UH are too slow especially in time of energency, the charter just be wrong. Times the UH could not do anything, "how can she have any better or one effective ideas?" The hopes nevertheless that something ight be actained in the not too for future.

fungarion scools escaped from Hungary because my they could no more on ure count toporession. It was minly the younger gener tion that escaped, regardless of social class, and estly from the Mestern part of the country. These who took part in the revelution this way or the other had to fice of course. Then of course many case who had relatives in the free world, and for when this was the last o mortunity to join them.

Then the elderly copie who did not want to leave their house, too may ties, and the did not dare to venture out into the unknown to start new in lien approundings. Les ondent is sorr for then and direct the also for their courage to have stayed, nowing that life under the commists now will even to worse then ever.

of very few -if at all- of individuals on attached list.
Regarding people who left hangary before 1996 she knows even less, as she was too young at that the te be interested, or to hear about them.

C. The not one person who came back to Tung ry in 1949, driven by homesic mess but he clumys regretted it.

The commists launched the rederection on paign winly because due to the fact that most young people left the country, there is a great labor shortage. Iso a great number of "professionals" such as doctors, engineers, etc. left. The program, of course was a failure.

Respondent thinks that people who came to the Wo should assimilate and became part of the American life as soon as easible.

eople in Hug ry want to know how the criles are getting on in their new headland, they want to know about their lives, how they are being treated ingo. They are interested in working conditions in the Ud, the standard of living. Mother they have or will have the the same rights later on as a born citizen of the Ud. Mother or not all jobs are open for them or there is discrimination grant foreigners.

The criles on their part should inform the American public whomt that Thing rishs cherish freedom above everything else, and that they will fight for freedo and be willing to sacrifice everything for it, and yet not feel that it is a sacrifice.

The decidedly does not want to join any exile organization. Respondent west too young in ight times before 1943 and can therefore not tell har of her feelings about the different lungarian political parties, neither about parties in exile. The heard of parties being revived during the revolution, such as the Smillholders arty and the Personts Party, but was not in favor of such revivals. They should have writed while fighting was going on, it was uch too soon to have taken us ectivities. Previous calle groups should not have returned to lungary. They wouldn't have been velcomed either.

Merself she would not writ to return to hung ry for good circu stances or litting, but she would certainly go back for a visit. If she had children, she would teach then to most lungarian in the Ut.

III TOI HOURE COICES TO TOT TO THEFT ITS

Thile in hung by respondent always listened to foreign radio stations: The Vol and the series a Porces program. The reception was more or less the same, that is they were all jamed, but Rell was justed most. Sometimes, however, they could get quite good reception. She usually listened in to the Rungarian broadensts, sometimes to the Inglish but had difficulty in understanding merican English. The wouldn't have missed a day, and histened mostly to Vol. As everybody clae, she also told always to reliable friends what she heard on the Poreign radio. The and her for illy owned two radios and had always some friends who came to listen with them. She also heard of Mestern broade sts at second hand. The from friends.

There certainly was a risk involved in histoning if found out as ecially that one listened regularly to such foreign real casts. It was a had mark against you. Even if the regime did not empressedly errest people for histoning to foreign breadersts, they always could and did find some other encuse. Despite all restrictions, however, everybody always listened, and did not deter anybody. Could not tell about changes during the last years, if there were, she did not realize.

People on the whole thought, as did she, - that Not was the least accurate regarding news. Buring the revolution, however, not.
I erefore she preferred VC. Ise on this station she could get the best maie. She judged the accuracy of the stations by her own ermorience. Buring the revolution the Preign radios a well as This least their homes alive. By and night could were sitting in shifts at the radio and following the UI sessions, howing, always hoping that something will be done. The did not have the impression that IT i incited the Hungarian people. But was they were saying and how they said it gave the impression that help would come forth eventually.

IN should continue to broadcast into Hungary, as at least they can so pure the news with the Russian and Hungarian official columns to program of IT should consist of political news.

The radio program of IT should consist of political news.

The ratio program of Not should consist of political news but no anti communist propaganda. Further, such and good music /this because the Tungarian communist radio is very dull too such propaganda, politics, no "light" programs.

B. Respondent fid not hear ever of H. ... the has heard about the Twelve Decends, but could not tell of what they consist.

C.

Has hear front free harose is flets, but does not now any more details. Iso nothing about being dangerous in decing them up or talking about them to encoue etc.

In a way they light have been effective, inassuch as the commists sow that the West is beening anti-commist propagands clive.

Hevertheless she does not see such good in continuing to drop leaflets. The radio is core effective.

D. The surposes of draping leaflets into langury might have been to shake up languring number opinion against commission he believes that if erent organisations had, braically, the same objectives.

N. CHITCH MINE IT INCLUDE.

The main things respendent to all toach to her children would be first of all decent behavior, body hygiene, study a les first than also. Conscienciousness toward duties. Should be malanguages literature, yetery, arts, maic.
Discipling is very important in education, however, she disapproves of placed unich tent. Treat out of loys and girls should be the said, and comform to age.

The some and could not receiver of having been unished as a child as she was on "friendly" relations with her parents, who slowys reasoned out things with her but his not would her. The cert inly new of families where children over 6 regardless of their sen, were unished. There was are shydeal unish ent in the "lower" classes. There were classes during the last 10 years, since the whole save themal syste, underwent a change for union or commistive the children were some of se, she thinks, but could not tell whether or not this veries by social class.

Con union brought bout changes in this respect, incomen as hysical numishment was one or loss abandoned. The young people were more "independent an maker self-conceiencious. Type the relationship between parent and child was ore levelled.

Respondent could not give any emander regarding the difference in disciplinin children under age 3 before and ofter the co-union.

The win requirement of Priendship should be honorty, straightlary reness. Thether or not there has been any changes in Priendslip suring commiss, respondent could not tell.
