I. CHARACTER DESCRIPTION

The boy comes from a provincial working class family. Father is a shipwright and worked at one of the largest yacht resorts building yards at a health resort on the Lake Balaton. Settled in Glenbrook, Connecticut he works at a ship building yard here in Stamford and is making pretty good fast.

There are two children in the family, all younger than the subject and the mother looks after the children at home.

The child age 7, is really quite a baby still and it was difficult to hold his attention, also I find that very often he mixed up events of his school life here in the United States, and the ones back in Hungary.

I had to skip or cut short many paragraphs because I found the boy not intelligent nor bright enough to answer them.
