29. Of peasant stock, this college student is a highly talented person with intellectual and artistic ambitions, whose college education was halted for his Kulak origin. His drive for knowledge and education brought him first, to the Medical School, where he suffered frustration by being expelled from the University. Respondent has factual information on rural life and agriculture as well as on education and the school system. I recommend him for special interviews.
31. "10" When some questions of a general nature came up, he was inclined to speak in abstractions and it took time to get back to concrete statements of less verbosity. He had the answers, but needed to be guided to them through explanations and clarification on my part.
